FOUR CENTS

DULLES VIEWS SOUTH KOREAN DEFENSES—At trench on the now-famous 38th parallel, State Department adviser John Foster Dulles (in black hat) looks over south Korea defenses as Korean officer points to Communist-dominated territory. With Dulles is Minister of Defense Sihng Sung Mo (in sun helmet) and directly behind the Republican foreign policy expert stands Korean Foreign Minister Ben C. Limb. The American officer (second from right) is Maj. J. W. Billee, adviser to Korean Army 7th Division. Dulles is now enroute to Washington.

House Debates New Tax Bill

Republicans Seeking Separate Votes

WASHINGTON, June 27 — (AP)—House debate opens today on the new tax bill, with Republicans driving to split it in half, so that votes may be taken on two separate bills.

One would slash levies by $1,010,000,000 on fur coats, jewelry, movies and scores of other items.

The other would boost taxes on big corporations by around $433,000,000, plug loopholes and make other tax law changes to gather new revenue for offsetting the loss from the excise reductions.

Republican strategy was drawn late Monday at a mass meeting of the 171 GOP house members. The rally was held after Republican Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, had assailed the measure supported by Democrats as "a phony tax relief bill, framed in political panic."

Democratic leaders set a vote on the one-package bill for Thursday. They were so confident of victory that they did not bother to count noses in advance.

The leaders hoped to toss the bill over to the senate and then let the house take a long Fourth of July weekend. Some voiced hope, too, that the senate will act in time for the excise cuts to become effective on September 1.

The one-package bill was drawn by the house ways and means committee, with the $433,000,000 levy on big corporations intended to avoid a veto.

P. T. A. In Favor Of School Board Plan

Representatives of the Parent-Teachers Associations in Salem passed a resolution favoring the board of education's present building program at a meeting Monday night at Fourth Street School. Sixteen persons attended.

E. S. Kerr, superintendent of schools, discussed the program and explained the gym-auditorium for Fourth Street School, which was planned more than two years ago.

The meeting was called by Walter Yarian, president of the Junior High School P. T. A.

TWO DRIVERS FINED—Two drivers were fined Monday following arrests by State patrolmen. W. L. Satterfield, 20, of R. D. 1, Salem was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Felix Butch of Lisbon for reckless driving. John Mihalcak, 32, of New Middleton was cited for driving left of center. He was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Brooks Reed of Poland.

What About the Gymnasium?

Various Proposals Up For Salem's Analysis

By JOE KUPKA

THREE proposals have been offered for the expansion of gymnasium facilities large enough for Salem High School Basketball. One faction wants a fieldhouse, another an addition to the Memorial building and still a third group favors an enlarged gym-auditorium at Fourth Street School.

Those backing the fieldhouse proposition are at odds as to the character of its use. Some seem to think that, besides basketball, it should accommodate shows, boxing and wrestling matches, concerts and other civic events. Others want it solely for basketball games. Two or three persons, at meetings, advanced the idea that a swimming pool should be installed.

From all available estimates, a fieldhouse seating 2,000 would cost about $300,000, plus yearly expenses for upkeep. (Youngstown South Fieldhouse, in spite of all the city's high school cage games as well as college and professional basketball, goes in the "red" every year.

VIEWS DIFFER on the location of the fieldhouse. A few residents have said they would protest any action to build in their vicinity. Parking, also, would be a problem if it were situated in an already crowded area.

Another argument is that the town is too small for an enterprise of such size.

Supporters of the Memorial building addition contend their proposal rests on sounder ground. Although statistics are not at hand, cost of the addition probably would be one-third less than the fieldhouse. They add that the building has its own physical plant. (Fourth Street School addition would be as well.) But, it has been said, about four more employees would need to be hired to run it. As in the fieldhouse proposal, there are differences of opinion, some favoring facilities for all manner of contests and entertainment, including a swimming pool.

The more conservative think the gym floor would be ruined if it were used for anything else. (Joe Kelley, manager of the Memorial building, could tell story after story about the cigarette burns, scratches and other defacings which have caused him and his co-workers misery and misgivings).

THE THIRD PROPOSAL, the enlargement of the Fourth Street School addition, is in the nature of a compromise. The board of education has approximately $100,000 in its building fund and anticipates more money when the Columbia School property is sold. This, in the opinion of the board, would amply provide for small basketball games but not for the larger high school games.

George P. Lozier, president of the board of education, hinted in a talk at graduation exercises June 8 that larger accommodations could be provided if $175,000 more could be raised to supplement the money now on hand.

The presumption is that if the board finds no reason for other determination it will proceed with the plan for the small gym-auditorium program at Fourth Street School which the funds now in hand will permit.

E. S. KERR, superintendent of schools, has indicated that an enlargement of the Fourth Street School addition for gym-auditorium has one objectionable side. It would prevent the construction of two additional classrooms, he believes, and force their inclusion elsewhere to meet the needs of growing enrollment.

Mr. Kerr also takes the position that an enlarged structure would cost about $300,000 for seating capacity up to 1,500, without parking area other than on the streets.

THE ENTIRE MATTER seems to summarize down to these considerations:

1. Raising the additional money needed via the route of popular subscription would

Year Extension Of Draft Voted By Conferees

Truman Could Call
Guard, Reservists
To Active Duty

WASHINGTON, June 27 — (AP)—Senate-house conferees today voted a one year extension of the President's existing power to draft young men.

The agreement, which must be ratified by both chambers, also would empower the President to order the National Guard and all Reserves to immediate active duty.

The senate-house group obviously acted because of the tense Korean situation.

They junked previous restrictions voted by the senate and house upon presidential authority to induct manpower and voted out a one year extension of existing draft powers.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), one of the conferees, told a reporter that the previously deadlocked lawmakers had quickly agreed today that this was no time to have the world think there was a dispute here over such a matter.

Congressional Authority

Previously the house had voted a two year extension of the peacetime draft act requiring registration of young men 18 through 25 years. It retained in the hands of Congress the authority for inductions or actual drafting.

The senate voted a three-year extension also retaining "trigger control" over actual drafting when Congress was in session. It would have allowed the President to start inductions, when Congress was away, if he found it necessary to build up the armed services to strengths allowed by congressional appropriations.

The compromise allows the one year extension of the present act plus new powers to order the Reserves and National Guard to active duty.

This could not have been done for all Reserves under the present law, unless the President or Congress declared a national emergency, officials said.

Statement Issued

The conferees issued this statement:

"The senate and house conferees, meeting to resolve differences in the extension of the Selective Service Act of 1948, have agreed to extend the existing law, without limitation, for a period of one year, until July 9, 1951.

"The conferees further agreed to authorize the president to order into active federal reserve for a period of not to exceed 21 months, any and all members and organizations of the National Guard and other Reserve components. The conferees emphasized that this is not congressional action directing immediate federal service for the reserve components. It is, however, a grant of authority to the President, should conditions so warrant, to order into federal service the reserve components.

"Under the terms of the agreement of the conferees, the President may not exceed the manpower strength set out in the 1948 Selective Service Act, totalling 2,005,882."

THE SUDDEN INVASION of south Korea by north Korean Reds, following hard on the momentous Tokyo conferences of General MacArthur, Secretary of Defense Johnson, Gen. Omar Bradley and John Foster Dulles, forces the United States to take another look at its hand in the Far East. The newspaper above shows the importance of Formosa—which had just about been written off to the Communists—as highlighted by the dramatic offer of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to send troops, planes and ships from that beleaguered stronghold to south Korea. The United States will speed powerful weapons to south Korea in an effort to halt the war, and the Tokyo conferees reportedly favor prompt aid to Formosa, including military equipment and a military mission to advise the Nationalists on Formosa's defense.

Service Ruled Loyal American

Diplomat Cleared,
Newspaper Learns

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—The Evening Star said today it has learned the State Department loyalty board has cleared Diplomat John S. Service as a loyal American and a good security risk.

State Department officials declined comment and neither Service nor his attorney was available immediately. Government agencies customarily do not announce the results of loyalty board investigations.

The report that Service had been cleared by the department board came as senate investigators sought to find a key to what they described as a confusing FBI-recorded talk in 1945 between Service and Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe.

Service, a State Department Far Eastern official, testified under oath last week that he never knowingly gave military secrets to Jaffe, who was editor of the now-defunct Amerasia magazine. Service said he had no such information to impart.

Service yesterday spent 4½ hours before the inquiry committee at a closed meeting and was reported to have maintained his stand that he never wittingly passed military secrets to Jaffe.

An individual familiar with what went on at the committee session said Service listened to a reading of the FBI transcript and declared he could not recall ever having made remarks to him in parts of the recording. The FBI's recording was the result of the agency's concealing a microphone in Jaffe's hotel room on May 9, 1945.

North Korean Planes Downed

U. S. Manned Fighters
Protect Evacuees

TOKYO, June 27—(AP)—U. S. manned fighters today shot down four North Korean planes attempting to disrupt the evacuation of Americans from South Korea, it was learned tonight.

There was no official announcement of the action from General MacArthur's headquarters. But reports gathered by correspondents at Itazuki airbase in southern Japan, terminus of the airlift, bore out the figures.

MacArthur's headquarters officially announced earlier in the day that one American fighter had shot down a Russian-built North Korean plane attempting to interfere with the airlift at Kimpo field, outside of Seoul.

Associated Press Correspondent O. H. P. King, who flew to Japan from Seoul during the day, reported two North Korean planes were downed by South Korean piloted Mustang fighters at Kimpo.

That would make a total of six North Korean planes lost in combat during the day.

Some Itazuki reports placed the number shot down by South Korean and American pilots during the evacuation at eight planes.

Order Issued By President

WASHINGTON, June 27 — (AP) — President Truman today ordered United States planes and warships to the aid of South Korean forces.

He laid down a policy of standing firm against Communist aggression in the Far Pacific.

As a part of the broader policy, Mr. Truman directed that the U. S. Seventh Fleet be prepared to intervene to prevent any Communist attack on Formosa, the island refuge of the Chinese Nationalist government.

At the same time, he asked that Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese Nationalists, cease attacks on the mainland as a contribution toward the pacification of the whole area.

He also announced he is stepping up aid to the Philippines and Indo-China.

Mr. Truman announced his actions in a statement which declared:

"The attack upon Korea makes it plain beyond all doubt that Communism has passed beyond the use of subversion to conquer independent nations and will now use armed invasion and war."

It was learned that Mr. Truman's historic decisions were reached at a high policy meeting at the White House last night. Before announcing them in a statement today, he called both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to the White House to review them and explain the background.

The United States actions were taken under the United Nations resolution which condemned the Communist invasion of Korea and asked all members of the U. N. to lend their support to carrying out the U. N. declaration for a halt to the fighting.

The next big question is what will be Russia's reaction. The hope of American officials is that the Soviets will refrain from any direct aid to the North Korean forces and permit the fighting there to be ended.

Seized Towns To Be Bombed

U. S. Planes Reported
Ready In Korea

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, June 27—(AP)—A report that apparently was first founded said American planes tonight would begin bombing all towns captured by North Korean troops and would continue bombing until the northerners have retreated back across the 38th parallel.

The report that American-manned bombers would take such action was confirmed by usually informed sources.

The Seoul radio maintained a consistent series of broadcasts saying that American planes will come over South Korea and urging all Koreans to keep up their spirits.

The broadcasts also have repeated that a MacArthur field headquarters will be established.

The broadcasts said American troops, too, will join the battle. Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's public information officer, said he knew nothing about this.

But the apparently well founded report said American planes will begin their bombing runs tonight.

This report said the bombings would continue until the North

Fighter Planes On Guard As Americans Are Evacuated

(Associated Press Correspondent O. H. P. King, who flew out of Seoul, Korea, today aboard an American evacuation plane. Here is a dispatch he telephoned to Tokyo upon his arrival in southern Japan.)

ITAZUKI AIRBASE, Kyushu Japan, June 27—(AP)—The U. S. air forces are evacuating Americans from blazing Korea as fast as possible.

The skies above Kimpo and another south Korean airfield are protected by American fighters, one of which shot out of the sky a speedy Russian-made Yak fighter that attempted to interfere with the evacuation.

Some 563 persons are scheduled to be flown from Korea by nightfall. Most of them will land here. It is the biggest airlift operation since the Berlin airlift last year.

Before leaving Seoul at 11:30 a. m. I tried to telephone Korea's President Syngman Rhee at his residence. I could not reach him. Not all of the Americans are leaving. About 350 military advisers of the Korean government are driving south in jeeps.

It is still possible to avoid a Communist sweep of the Korean peninsula if these forces can be regrouped and organized into defensive forces.

American Ambassador John J. Muccio was reported at the last minute to have been persuaded to abandon his intention of remaining in Korea.

He was believed to have been flown to Japan along with about 200 U. S. military personnel and 100 other persons. They were last reported in Suwon, about 20 miles south of Seoul.

Delegate members of the United Nations Commission on Korea were flown out.

C-54s were hauling the evacuees out of Kimpo to Itazuki, 240 miles away. Other planes were taking others from Suwon to Itazuki.

The first plane took off while machine gun bullets were heard beyond the confines of Kimpo field.

Taft Favors Arms Aid To Korean Defenders

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) says loss of South Korea to northern invaders might be a blow to American prestige, but it is hardly a cause for war.

Taft told newsmen last night he favored prompt arms aid to South Korea. But he said he wasn't very confident of success through such aid.

The senior Ohio senator cited the Yalta conference as perhaps robbing the arms of their effectiveness.

"In Korea, as a result of the fool policy of Yalta," he said, "the Communists have control of half the country. We assigned them half the country, let them set up an army and get ready."

Korean Situation

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Russians Could Get Powerful Base

THE UNITED STATES has denounced as an "act of aggression" the Communist-backed attack by North Korea on the Republic of southern Korea, and is rushing military supplies from Japan to its little protégé.

The South Korean ambassador to Washington, John Myun Chang, not only brands the act as aggression but says it couldn't have been carried out "without Soviet direction." U. S. Senator Knowland of California, who recently visited Korea, agrees with Chang, as do other close observers, including your correspondent.

Accepting this as a well founded appraisal, what significance can we attach to it? Can it possibly mean that Russia is using this "incident" as the springboard for another major war?

I think not. There has been no sign that the Soviet union wants world war at this juncture. On the contrary, all the indications are that Moscow isn't prepared for an all-out conflict.

True, there is some feeling in American quarters in Tokyo that the North Korean drive might be designed to distract attention from a more important Communist offensive elsewhere in Asia. That could be so, because numerous other Asiatic theatres are threatened.

TIME WILL HAVE to demonstrate the Red motive. Meanwhile, however, southern Korea in itself is of such great strategic value that Russia undoubtedly would do much to gain complete domination of it. To understand this point we need only go back 50 years to the time when Russia had diplomatic control of Korea and Japan declared that the peninsula of Korea was "a dagger pointed at her heart."

From the military standpoint that charge was true, and it brought about the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5. Japan was successful and Russia recognized Tokyo's paramount interest in Korea. Finally in 1910 Japan annexed Korea and held it until the little country was given its independence after the late world war.

The peninsula of Korea, if controlled by unfriendly hands, still is a dagger pointed at Japan's heart. That is to say, Korea would be a powerful military base for action against Nippon, or to be held over Tokyo as a threat to secure concessions.

That brings up up to the salient fact that Moscow is at loggerheads with America and the rest of the Western Allies over the position of Japan. Russia is utterly opposed to America's dominant position and occupation of Nippon.

MOREOVER, the signs are that the United States and the Western Allies shortly will conclude a treaty with Japan, leaving Russia out of the picture unless she sees fit to play ball. Under that treaty the United States is bound to gain concessions which include bases in Japan and the right to maintain defensive troops there.

So I think these facts may well account for the Communist move to secure control of all Korea and thereby gain an invaluable base which not only points "at the heart of Japan" but also lies close to the ring of America's defensive posts throughout the Southeast Pacific.

Also, in the view of American officials at Washington, it is a military probing operation to test the resistance and power of the non-Communist world.

In any event, whatever may be in Moscow's mind, there is no reason to believe it is the creation of a major war. The danger of the Korean aggression, of course, is that the peninsula is a tinderbox surrounded by explosive situations.

I'm just back from a vacation in the Maine woods which are so tinder dry that the utmost precautions are being taken throughout the state to prevent forest fires. Even the careless tossing away of a lighted cigarette might cause a catastrophe.

That's about the way things are in the Korean theatre at this writing. The United Nations security council, meeting at urgent summons, is treating the invasion as a threat to world peace. The council has ordered a cease fire and withdrawal of North Korean troops from the south.

June... Moon... Goon

By TRUMAN TWILL

THIS year's June brides—who are not, by the way, any different from August brides or November brides—are not seeking advice. That makes it safe to dish it out, secure in the knowledge they won't take it. And the same goes double for June grooms, who think they know all the answers. Maybe they do.

But to play it safe, the brides and grooms should give thought to those who were married in June and all the other months of previous years. This will give them perspective on the problems they will face. It also will give them a more balanced point of view on the happiness they hope to attain. After all, the old-timers have found out a few things.

Marriage, to state the proposition bluntly, is a little bit of June, a little bit of February, a little bit of October and a little bit of everything else in the calendar. There are days when everything is in tune, and there are days when everything is out of tune. They are in-between days—and they are the ones to watch.

They are the times when it is easiest to forget that the art which makes it possible for two or more human beings to live together without a bashing-in of skulls must be acquired. It must be worked at. It is not bestowed like a wedding present. When lost, it cannot be replaced with something just as good from the store.

Nor can it be picked up by reading a book, or listening to well-meant advice—like this. It must be realized on a strictly personal basis. Some never make the grade; they end up in divorce courts or estrangements. Some of these never could have made the grade under any circumstances, because being married was too tough a proposition for them to handle. But for those who have the potentialities, a little advice may hasten the personal realization of the art of being married.

Never forget that the other party to the experiment, which is what all marriages start out by being, is entitled to a little better than an even break. That is a big order. It entails letting the other fellow win an argument even though he may be dead wrong. It means he is entitled to keep his self-respect in all things, with a little to spare. That's a big order, too.

Pat the boob on the back when he muffs one. Lay off that wise crack about all women and all men being alike; they aren't.

Some years back, Admiral Richard E. Byrd wanted to make weather observations at a remote outpost in the Antarctic. He decided it was out of the question to take a companion with him. Two people, he explained, couldn't stand each other for the weeks he expected to be penned up in the outpost. But brides and grooms risk the same thing for a lifetime. Millions of them make a liar out of Admiral Byrd, who almost lost his life on that one-man expedition, incidentally, because when he got into trouble there was no one standing by to help him.

It's the Same Thing, Only Different

Acheson's Policy Toward Russia

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON
THERE IS no more loyal American than Dean Acheson, secretary of state, and no more conscientious public servant but, at the same time, no other secretary of state has been as inflexible in pursuing against all logic a single objective—the idea that manifestation of our physical strength can put morals into an immoral group of leaders in Soviet Russia. For months now the speeches from the Department of State and the Department of Defense have been stressing the growth of American defenses and the North Atlantic defense program, and Mr. Acheson himself again and again has referred to the need to create "areas of strength" everywhere in the world. But when one asks where that policy is heading, the only answer is a vague statement about a hoped-for willingness of the Kremlin leaders eventually to change their habits and be good.

speech at Harvard was a penetrating and unanswerable indictment of the misbehavior of the Soviet government in the family of nations. After this review is examined, it is difficult to see how the United States government can ever again put faith or trust in anything the present Soviet rulers may pledge, yet Mr. Acheson, oblivious to the contradictions he has introduced, said at Harvard:

"Strength is not a substitute for discussion and accommodation."

"As the leaders of the Soviet union come to appreciate that their analysis of the world situation, and their policies flowing from that analysis, have been incorrect, the possibility for reasonable settlements of matters affecting the stability and progress of the international community will increase."

"Until the Soviet leaders do genuinely accept a 'live and let live' philosophy, then no approach from the free world, however imaginative, and no Trojan dove from the Communist movement, will help to restore our mutual problems."

"This does not mean that discussion should not take place, but that every effort should be made to settle any questions which are possible of settlement."

AS ONE READS and rereads carefully those few paragraphs which were the heart of the speech, it is evident that Mr. Acheson sets up a premise and then strikes it down. He declares, on the one hand, that the Soviet leaders may conceivably see the error of their way, but he adds that nothing can be done until they accept a "live and let live" policy.

This implies that the misbehavior of the Soviet rulers in the last five years could some day be forgotten by us, and complete trust and faith be placed in the Kremlin's word. The American people will never believe that any treaty with the Kremlin will be worth the paper it is written on—not after the perfidious record by the Soviet leaders so painstakingly recited by Secretary Acheson in his speeches.

What, then, is left? Again Secretary Acheson strikes down the only alternative—the "imaginative approach." He rejects it without allowing it to be tried. One approach around which public opinion could be readily mobilized in this country calls for a separation of the Kremlin from the Russian people and the offering of a comprehensive program of economic and social benefits that could be presented to the Russian people.

There is evidence that ideas are getting across the iron barrier every day. The "Voice of America" could be concentrated on such an imaginative program instead of on the ponderous, undramatic and rather dull recital of political news that the average Russian cares to hear no more than does the average American.

There are lots of ways in which the "imaginative approach" can lead to the liberation of the Russian people. It can be done without considering for a moment any appeasement of the rulers in the Kremlin. For, after the record so pointedly presented by the secretary of state in his speech last week, they have forfeited their right to any further consideration as a responsible government in world affairs. New War? 'No'

By HAL BOYLE

That's Opinion Of Columnist

NEW YORK
IS THIS the start of a third world war? That is the question that touches most American hearts today as news pours in of the fighting in far Korea, the "Ireland of the Orient."

I believe the answer is: "No!" I believe that the answer would still be the same even though the United States dispatched troops, ships and planes to back up the cease-fire decree of the United Nations.

Why? My conviction is that Soviet Russia isn't yet ready to plunge the globe into another international conflict.

She stretches across 7,000 vulnerable miles that aren't ready for war. Both her frontiers and her wide open heartland are unprepared for war—if we can believe what our military authorities say about her.

Let her own Russian-trained forces in Korea sweep that time-bound land—as they have been doing. Or let them fall. Soviet Russia isn't yet ready to tie her own dreams of world conquest to the northern Korean troops.

She yet expects to take Korea by the invasion of the western world.

AGAIN WHY? Because at present the Soviet military and political aim is to try to take the countries on its vast borders by their own inferior revolutions. Greece yesterday, Korea today, Southeast Asia tomorrow. And where the day after tomorrow? Whenever poverty and interior political disaffection makes a country ripe for its propaganda.

Russia backed down in Greece, is still grappling in a sudden bold grab for Korea, hasn't yet made it main bid for Southeast Asia.

Why doesn't this mean war right now? For a deep and basic reason inherent to the Russian approach to its own predicament.

In its very strength—its great, sprawling, contiguous reach of land—lies its great weakness. It can be hit from many angles, and to keep itself from being approached it has endeavored to surround itself with buffer extensions of itself.

Whether or not it really accepts these satellite states into the pattern of its being, its leaders are trying frantically to protect the main body of Russia from possible enemy blows.

RUSSIA LOST the first battle for Berlin when it attempted to starve the German population was countered by the great Allied airlift, which flew in food, fuel and medicine. That was a substitute for direct force—and it worked. The Russian propaganda failed. The Allies delivered.

It is my conviction that even stronger measures can be taken in Korea than were employed in Greece—if the Allied command will increase.

Why? Because Russia, big as she is, is cides it's worth the gamble. Her two greatest natural enemies are Japan and Germany. They lie at opposite frontiers. And weakened as they are, I can't see how Russia will ever go to war over Korea with these two great historic bulldogs unopposed—ready to rip her throat from either side.

Russia is still backing in Korea—just another test of her pressure—and isn't ready to bite. She'll still stand for her bluff being called. And I'd call Joe Stalin now, just as Adolf Hitler should have been called when he marched into the Rhineland. Remember? (AP Newsfeatures)

Looking Backward

From The News File

FORTY YEARS AGO—Fred Gibbons was captain of the winning team in the contest conducted by the Macrahees. The losers, captained by George McArthur, treated the winners to lunch.

Miss Eugenia Sulist arrived Tuesday from Sheboygan, Mich., where she has been teaching school for the past term. She will spend the vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Sulist, east of Salem.

Mrs. Frank Kerr and son, Robert, of Lincoln Ave. left yesterday for Fremont, Ark., going by way of Cincinnati and Memphis, Tenn. They will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Smith.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—Open demands that China declare war on Great Britain were being made by Chinese radicals in Shanghai as a climax to a wave of anti-British feeling that has been sweeping over the country as the result of the killing of eight Chinese by British Marines.

Although the newspapers emphasize the diplomatic crisis which has developed between Mexico and the United States, the Mexican people appeared to be indifferent to the political tension.

TEN YEARS AGO—After the Indians' argument with Manager Ossie Vitt everyone expected the Tribe to fall apart, but the boys have six consecutive scrapings to their credit, including a 7-4 prize from the Red Sox yesterday.

The French cabinet has received Italy's terms of a French-Italian armistice, prerequisite for the end of fighting also with Germany, and negotiations may be concluded today.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Pittsburgh hitting and jittery New York pitching have produced the inevitable result—the Giants have slid from first to third in the National League and the Pirates are roosting on top.

American soldiers and Marines fought forward behind flame-throwing tanks on the southern Okinawa plateau in a campaign which Lt. Gen. Simon B. Buckner, Jr., said should secure the entire island within a week.

Elbow In The Ribs

THE QUESTION of what the United States intends to do about Russian aggression in Asia is now going to be answered.

The beginning of open warfare between Koreans backed by the United States and Koreans backed by the Soviet Union will bring a final decision if the United States rushes help to the South Korean government, the Kremlin will have found out what it wants to know.

Specifically, it will have found out that the abandonment of Nationalist China did not represent a policy but was only recognition of a reality—that Chiang Kai-Shek no longer could be supported; and this is exactly what the Kremlin needs to know.

It, too, is trying to deal with reality. In its attitude, as determined by the general attitude of the international communist conspiracy, is to overrun what cannot be defended. The new Russian imperialism is trained by only one thing—force. It has no conscience, no compunctions, no respect for the rights of others.

Using Korean puppets, it intends to knock off South Korea if possible. This newest crisis is a sharp elbow in the ribs of the United States—to see what is possible.

Trygve Lie's Proposition

IT WAS IN THE CARDS that Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, would become involved sooner or later in the fallacy that all men are divisible into two ideologies—that communist conspiracy and the particular branch of whatever anti-communist ideology happens to be involved in resistance to the conspiracy. In rejecting that classification, Mr. Lie submits an interesting proposition. He says that as an employee of the United Nations he cannot be partisan in national or international ideologies. "The ideology advocate," he explains, "is world peace and progress."

This will not be satisfactory to those who have convinced themselves there are only two classifications of people in the world. But the fact is that nothing can satisfy them. If they are communist, they lump all non-communists and despise them impartially. If they are anti-communists, they too often want to lump not only all communists but everybody who refuses to be their kind of an anti-communist and despise them impartially. Mr. Lie's proposition, which assumes that the problem isn't that simple, will be too hard for them to understand.

But it needs to be understood by those who are trying to resist the communist conspiracy. It is not necessary to share the point of view of a Hitler, Tito, or a Mussolini to qualify as an opponent of the communist conspiracy. Nor is it necessary to share the points of view of any other person or any organization holding that the only way to fight one kind of terrorism is take up some other kind of terrorism. The fight against the conspiracy is primarily in behalf of human dignity and human freedom, which may have to be saved from something just as ghastly as the communist conspiracy if the fallacy that all anti-communists must subscribe to some specific point of view goes unchallenged.

A Flash Of Genius

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS, reports The Associated Press, has done something constructive about pencil stubs. Thousands, perhaps millions, of people have had a hunch this situation would be handled some day.

The Library of Congress, being an integral part of the government, naturally approaches the problem of pencil stubs in a governmental manner. It set up a routine. Staff members were instructed to turn in their pencil stubs to the divisional secretaries. These functionaries were ordered to relay the stubs to the supply officer. The supply officer, upon being duly notified, is authorized to issue the stubs to whatever departments need stubs. This demand presumably will come from persons using the Library of Congress who discover they have forgotten to bring pencils with them.

This is not intended to be derogatory to the Library of Congress, which is a great national institution doing a fine job. It only goes to show what can be done about problems of long standing, such as pencil stubs, when a government agency bears down. The line of least resistance would have been to do what almost everybody else does—let the janitor, the dry cleaner, or the lady of the house figure out what to do with the unused residue of pencils.

The Senate committee investigating organized crime in the U.S. is seriously considering sending some of its agents to Europe this summer. Many of the known underworld characters in the U.S. are foreign-born. In many cases they had criminal records before they ever came to the U.S. which they covered up in order to get in. This could lead to deportation proceedings.

One Man's Opinion

THE PRICE of meat is up again and the demand continues wonderful. . . no doubt Congress will investigate the heads of the meat firms instead of the heads of the customers.

Filet mignon at $1.90 a pound tastes exactly like earlier filet mignon at 90 cents a pound . . . the only difference is in the customer's skull.

When porterhouse passed the dollar sign on this third time around we went back to studying the synthetic foods and hope to have a wood chop grilling by August.

But if we could perfect a wood chop some dope would start bidding up the price of shavings.

The only way I know to bring down the price of meat is to start propaganda that it's red meat . . . that will lessen the demand in a hurry.

Look how red herring has kept going down and down in value . . . you can't even sell it in Washington any more.

"These Changing Times"

The adage, "Time Changes Everything," is only partly true. Tis true, the seasons wax and wane; governments come and go; dynasties rise and fall, and age brings wrinkles to smooth, un-worried faces.

But time cannot change intangibles. Among these might be mentioned business integrity, service beyond necessity, excellence of craftsmanship and intrinsic worth of product.

Business houses' ideals live on through the years. Offering these intangible values these firms have grown slowly and securely for many years.

Questions and Answers

Q—Why are certain moths millers?

A—The word "miller" is often applied to the small light-colored moths, from the fact that the wings and the body are covered with a white or light flour-like powder, just as the clothes of an old-fashioned miller became covered with flour.

Q—What penalty can be imposed on enumerators who divulge U. S. census information?
A—A fine of $1000 or a year in jail.

Prepare For Truman Visit To Jamboree

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., June 27 —(AP)—There is far more going on than meets the eye at the bustling site of the second National Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America.

The behind-the-scenes activity has a two-fold objective. The jamboree will get under way officially on Friday when President Truman arrives to make the opening address.

Secret service men, state police and scout leaders are leaving no stone unturned to make certain the President's visit is without incident.

In addition, a scout official said today, extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent the jamboree—largest youth gathering ever held in the western hemisphere—from being discredited or "sabotaged" by Communists or their sympathizers.

The first two of more than 100 special trains arrived yesterday with 873 scouts from the Midwest. More than 16,000 other campers are expected today and by Thursday night, 47,000 scouts will be on hand from all the 48 states, U. S. territories, and 20 other countries.

The vast tent city in which the boys will live for seven days, ending July 6, is located on the rolling hills where George Washington's ragged Continental Army spent the winter of 1777.

In addition to President Truman, other notables expected to visit the week-long jamboree include General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

have doubtful chances.

2. A bond issue estimated at $175,000 for the enlarged plan at Fourth Street School would be subject to a vote of the people.

3. Fieldhouse or no fieldhouse? Either the board of education or the city council is free to act on such proposal (approximately $300,000) but neither has indicated any strong inclination toward it because of the cost of maintenance.

4. Addition to the Memorial building with seating capacity for 2,000 and a cost that might run as high as $200,000. Subject to bond issue; administration by the Memorial Building board.

To put the question of bond issues up to the people, either the board of education or the city must file their requests with the board of elections at least 60 days prior to Nov. 7.

C. Of C. Hears Reports And Talk On Traffic

Reports on the fieldhouse question and on the moving of the Bliss Co. to Canton were presented to members of the Chamber of Commerce by its industrial and civic committees, respectively, at a luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the Lape Hotel.

A discussion was held on the 13-point parking recommendations, which were drawn up by the chamber's traffic committee and will be presented to City Council tonight.

ferring with congressional, defense, diplomatic and military leaders.

When the White House conference broke up after nearly 45 minutes, most of the Congress members were silent and solemn. Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, a frequent Republican critic of administration foreign policy, told reporters:

"I only want to say I approve completely everything that's been done."

Bridges asked in a Senate speech Monday that the administration draw a line in the Pacific and say to the Communists that they must not cross it. In effect, Mr. Truman's pronouncement does that.

Bridges said: "We stepped into the breach in Korea, Indo-China and the Philippines. That's our job to protect."

Senator Smith (R-NJ) said he was "very much pleased" with the President's statement.

"A good forthright statement like that is a great contribution," Senate Democratic Leader Lucas told reporters: "It seems to me we're following the correct course in view of the aggressive attitude on the part of the North Koreans."

Koreans have retreated back across the parallel.

There has been no way of confirming whether the attacks already have started.

MacArthur's headquarters, meanwhile, announced that American embassy and American military advisers have not left Seoul.

A brief announcement said that tanks reported in Seoul's suburbs "appear to have been isolated forays."

It added "reports of seizure of Seoul have been exaggerated but this is understandable due to war hysteria resulting from the unprovoked North Korean assault."

The announcement confirmed that four Russian built Korean planes had been shot down by American manned fighters over Seoul's Kimpo airport when they "interfered with the evacuation of women and children."

MacArthur's announcement added that "previous reports that the Korean government had left Seoul for the south appear to have been unfounded."

Farm Aid Measure Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, June 27 —(AP)—A bill to add $2,000,000,000 to the $4,850,000,000 already available for supporting farm prices was approved Monday by the Senate.

The vote was 36 to 35, with Vice President Barkley intervening to break a tie. The measure now goes to the White House for President Truman's expected signature.

The money would be used by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to carry out federal supports for this year's crops of cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco, peanuts and other basic commodities.

Senate backers beat down a Republican-backed amendment aimed at curbing imports of foreign farm products.

Dulles Calls Korean Invasion 'Deliberate'

TOKYO, June 27—(AP)—John Foster Dulles, state department adviser, today termed the North Korean invasion "an unprovoked and deliberately prepared aggression."

Dulles made his statement at the airport shortly before he flew off to return to Washington.

Dulles, a sponsor of the South Korean republic before the United Nations, had visited only last week with President Syngman Rhee in Seoul.

The adviser said he had a "full and satisfactory exchange of views" in daily conferences with General MacArthur and various Japanese officials. MacArthur was at the airport to bid him goodbye.

"All of this will be taken into account in formulating future United States policy," Dulles added.

Giant Cruise Ship Will Be Launched

CAMDEN, N. J. June 27—(AP)—The U. S. President Jackson—19,600-ton American President Lines cruise ship equipped with everything from air conditioning to a fulltime baby sitter—slides down the ways today.

The traditional bottle of champagne will be broken over the new vessel's bow at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Corp. by Mrs. Alben W. Barkley.

The President Jackson—a 536-foot giant capable of carrying 304 first class passengers at 19 knots—is the first of three sister ships to be launched. All three will be placed in round-the-world service early in 1951, calling at 30 ports in 17 countries in the 100-day circuit trip.

Each of the ships was built under close government supervision and is capable of quick conversion to the role of attack transport carrying 2,500 troops.

Emotional Starvation Explained By Doctor

LOS ANGELES, June 27—(AP)—Did you know that you can emotionally starve a child to death?

"Without emotional satisfaction, children die—it's as simple as that," says Dr. Rene A. Spitz, New York psychoanalyst.

Here for a lecture tonight, he told a news conference yesterday that his 15 years' research in psychiatric diseases of children has proved that "emotional starvation is as dangerous as physical starvation; it's slower, but just as effective."

Recounting his European studies of 91 infants over a period of two years, Dr. Spitz said that once separated from their mothers and with no substitute for mothers, 37.3 per cent of these children died.

He also said that children separated from mothers or foster mothers for as little as three months become more prone to accidents and sickness.

"To put it simply," he continued, "man is a social animal. He must have emotional interchange with his fellow man, or perish."
